

Other Faculty Appointments

In addition to primary faculty appointments, there are a variety of other faculty appointment options that a department may utilize to achieve their educational and research goals. These types of faculty appointments are: Joint, Secondary, Adjunct, Lecturer, and Visiting. Not all of these faculty appointments consist of individuals who are physically at the University of Iowa. Some of these appointments are individuals who are non-academia who provide a different perspective to a course that they may teach and provide insight on real world experience to our students.
