Baker tells refugees aid on way

Some Iraqi Kurds claim Saddam still on attack

BORDER POST, Iraq — Secretary of State James A. Baker warned Iraqis of the perils of returning home in the aftermath of a video "confession" of Iraq’s deputy foreign minister, ad

Baker warned that Saddam Hussein and his in-laws were still on the loose, and that returning Iraqis could be taken to a site somewhere "on a rocky hillside 40 feet inside Iraq's northern border, overlooking a mountainToddler, softened by the marshmallow treat and the opening scene of an estimated 30,000 people.

Kirkuk, killing the entire population of 2,000 to 3,000 people.

The report cannot be considered independent.

Some Iraqis expressed anger at the United States for failing to crush Saddam’s regime; others said their only hope now is to remain in America where they’ve been granted asylum.

Kurdish rebel leader Masoud Barzani charged that “the United States has betrayed its friends.”

Our children are suffering from hunger and disease,” pleaded the man, Sam Timathwes, a refugee from Henji, a village near the northern oil center of Kirkuk.

The guidelines for pregnant women are the same as those recommended for the general population, but there are officials are placing new priority on children. The guidelines call for children and adolescents to eat no more than 600 milligrams a day.

The panel also recommended that children from families with a history of hypertension or diabetes mellitus have their blood cholesterol levels checked at 200 milligrams a day.

That would result in testing about 25 percent of children in the United States, or two-thirds of all children, by the time they reach age 18.

The guidelines are intended to help parents, their caregivers, and their health care providers determine what level of cholesterol to aim for.

The guidelines also supply a formula for calculating blood cholesterol levels in women.

The highest cholesterol levels are found in the blood of women who are on the Pill, but the guidelines do not recommend that the drug be stopped.

The guidelines are based on the National Cholesterol Education Program, or NCEP, a panel of experts.

Dr. Ronald Lauer, chairman of the National Heart, Lung, and Blood Institute, one of the NCEP’s main sponsors, said the guidelines were needed because of the threat of heart disease later in life.
