

Teaching the Novice

How Novices and Experts Approach Learning Differently

Monday, September 26, 2016
12:30 - 1:30 pm
C217 CPHB

Lunch is provided

RSVP to katie-mccullough@uiowa.edu or accept the Outlook calendar invitation.

Please join the Center for Teaching, Anna Flaming - Specialist in Teaching and Learning, Jean Florman - Director and Trevor Templeman - Student Instructional Technology Assistant, for an interactive workshop to explore the different ways that novices and experts approach information, and we will discuss some specific strategies for teaching novices.

Individuals with disabilities are encouraged to attend all University of Iowa-sponsored events. If you are a person with a disability who requires a reasonable accommodation in order to participate in this program, please contact the College of Public Health in advance at 319-384-1500.