- 2021 TV, CBS Saturday Morning, National
RUPRI / Keith Mueller cited - CBS Saturday Morning has a report on rural EMS and cites the RUPRI report - Report: Rural areas wait longer for ambulances. The latest census report finds that 60 million Americans live in rural areas. The Centers for Disease Control and Prevention reports that they tend to be older, sicker and poorer than the average American. According to a study by the Rural Policy Institute, there are not enough ambulances to help in an emergency. CBS News transportation correspondent Errol Barnett has the story.
- 2021 Radio, Iowa Public Radio, State
Austin Fast, reporter for IPR interviewed Keith May 20, 2021.
I'd also like to learn why rural health matters to everyone -- even for people in urban areas -- and if you know of strategies that can overcome vaccine hesitancy specifically in rural areas.

Soorin Kim, reporter with ABC News scheduled interview on Feb 10, 2021. I'm reaching out because I'm working on a story about potential vaccine deserts in rural parts of the country, and

I came across this study on pharmacy deserts. Would it be possible to get some additional information about this analysis -- mainly, the list of 110 counties (or maybe examples of such counties) with no pharmacies that are likely to contribute to the administration of vaccines, and more than 300 nonmetropolitan counties that are affiliated with the 19 chains/network partners with the HHS or those that have indicated that they provide on-site immunization service. Interview scheduled Jan 22, 2021. Reporter, Jamie Martines. I'm working on a story about vaccine rollout in rural areas, and I wanted to see if you might share the Pennsylvania county-level data from the Pharmacy Vaccination Service Availability report with me. I'm hoping to use it to zero in on which Pennsylvania counties are going to need more support for vaccine rollout and to check in with state and local agencies about their plans. It would also be great to set aside about 15-20 minutes to discuss the report.
